STRIPPER IN COURT ON A DRUGS CHARGE

Stripper Peki . . court told of drugs find.

BLONDE model and stripper Peki D'Oslo, 27, appeared in court yesterday on a drug charge.

She was accused of possessing a dangerous drug — nine tablets of physeptone — at an address in King's-road, Chelsea, London.

In court she wore a mauve mini-skirt and a shortie suede coat.

She was charged in her real name — Amanda Lear, of Nell Gwynn House, Chelsea.

Woman Detective Morag McGibbon of the Drugs Squad applied for a remand to magistrate Mr. Edward Robey, saying that the tablets had to be analysed.

Bail was allowed on £100 surety.